The University of Texas at Arlington is rapidly becoming the model for what a 21st century urban research university should be: focused on community engagement, teaching, and research discoveries offering big solutions with global impact.

Our success is powered by our faculty, staff, alumni and many stakeholders - and especially, our students. Over 40,000 students - 12% of whom are international students - are all seeking ways to connect with their campus and the greater community.
